Pertinent Topics Discussed by H.C.

The Archbishop of York says that when one finds oneself falling in love with another man's wife, a critical decision must be made at once and that decision should be to cease meeting. We had not thought of this before, but it is really excellent counsel and we hope that several lady friends will understand now why we have not called on them lately.

In 1936, the United States borrowed nine billion dollars and spent almost double the amount raised through ordinary revenue sources. It did another marvellous thing. It re-elected the President whom in 1932 it elevated to the Presidency on a platform calling for economy and balanced budgets. History furnishes no record that we know of equal to this.

Scenario writers have been running a race to see who could get on the screen first with a film based on the Simpson adventure. When the first one was submitted to Will H. Hays, Czar of the moving picture empire, he rejected it, saying that such a picture would offend not only the people of Britain, but also many in the United States. The race ended there, thanks to the good judgment of Mr. Hays.

The way of a partisan proclaiming his independence is hard, probably because it is much-travelled. A mining millionaire having got all his money out of the earth put some of it into the Globe, the Toronto morning Liberal paper. Then he went and bought the Mail and Empire, the morning Conservative paper, amalgamated them and put them or it under the charge of a protégé of his, 31 years of age with little experience in the business. He announced the new paper would be independent but would support the government—any government. There was a bye-election on and it announced that in spite of glaring errors it was supporting the provincial administration. Now, no government wants that sort of support. It does not admit glaring errors and does not relish the accusation coming from the mouth of a friend.

The bye-election was a decided reverse to the government. The paper balanced evenly by deploring the rough and tough stuff that was used to influence the electors and bracketed the Premier and the leader of the Opposition in the indictment. That should in his jejune lexicon have been sufficient evidence of impartiality; but it convinced no one, so he mildly rebuked the Premier for having damaged the province's credit by repudiating and cancelling contracts made by a previous administration. (If anyone thinks Alberta started the repudiation of obligations he is wrong, for it started first in Ontario). The Premier replied by suggesting that the multi-millionaire proprietor of the paper make good that obligation himself instead of asking the people to do it. And so the merry war goes on, but the public does not know yet whether it is real or sham warfare.

Some say that half has not yet been told about a recent event in England. It would be nearer the truth to say that 150 per cent. has already been told about it.

In 1935, 41 persons in the United States had incomes of a million dollars or over. A million is too much income for any one man in a year. It would be better if 82 persons had half a million each; better still if 164 had a quarter million each. But the more widely it is distributed the less money the government gets in income taxes, the rate being higher in the higher brackets. At this point we pause, not being certain just what it is we are trying to prove. O yes, it is this: No one needs money more than the government.

The Duke of Windsor has been offered a million for his memoirs. They would not be worth the money for the Duke is generally discreet in what he says or writes.

It was fortunate for Lloyd George

Vulcan V-8's Win First Home Game

Fair Sized Crowd Sees Locals Win Against Turner Valley on Holiday

Displaying some fast but ragged hockey, the Vulcan Ford V-8's defeated Turner Valley by a 5-1 score at the local arena on New Year's Day. The game, scheduled for 2.30, did not start until nearly four o'clock and only a fair-sized crowd was on hand to witness the battle. The local aggregation of puck-chasers displayed lots of speed and did some good work in back-checking but will have to acquire combination and finish around the net. Campbell scored two goals for the locals, with Harper, Love and Thompson netting the others.

Summary of Game

First period—1, Vulcan, Harper, 6.20; 2, Vulcan, Campbell (Love) 6.50; 3, Vulcan, Love (Craig) 10.20. Penalties: Kirkpatrick, Love, S. Thomas, Bannister.

Second period—No score. Penalty: Bannister.

Third period—4, Vulcan, Campbell, 4.46; 5, Vulcan, Thompson (Del Thomas) 7.05; 6, Turner Valley, Archibald, 13.35. Penalties: Kirkpatrick, Del Thomas.

Vulcan—10 Years Ago

Items Gleaned from the Vulcan Advocate of Thursday, January 7th, 1927

The editor of the Advocate at this time (the late Harry Nelson) was away on a holiday and the writing of the news for the paper was being handled by twelve members of the Elks' Lodge.

Preparations were being made for the annual Foothills Curling Bonspiel which was held in Vulcan that year. $500 was to be spent in prizes.

Vulcan schools were closed due to an epidemic of scarlet fever.

During the first week of January, 1927, several threshing outfits in the district were at work. The weather was very mild.

"I have only one request to make," groaned the college man who had come to work in the harvest. "What is that, Mr. Smart?" returned the farmer. "Please let me stay in bed long enough for the lamp chimney to cool off."

VULCAN HAPPENINGS

Miss Marjorie Hill, who is employed by Maxine Beauty Parlor, in Calgary, is spending a few days with friends here.

Mrs. A. Harris, who has been visiting with her parents Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Lommatzsch, has returned to her home in B.C.

K. Roy McLean, Sight Specialist, 210 Sotham Building, Calgary, will be in Vulcan Monday, January 18th, from 2 to 10 p.m., at the King Drug Store.

The Elks' annual New Year's Eve dance last Thursday was very well attended by town and district residents. Dancing, to the music of the Turley orchestra, continued until four o'clock in the morning.

In the report of the ice carnival last week we omitted the names of the judges, who were Mrs. Mackintosh, Mrs. Dawson and Rev. Father Cunningham. The ice committee was Messrs. Doney, Recor and Parsons and the door man was R. L. Elves. The Mothers' Auxiliary to the Scouts and Cubs wish to take this opportunity of thanking these persons for their able and willing assistance.

The return of cold weather this week seemed to coincide with the resumption of school activities. The weather had been fairly moderate until Monday, adding greatly to the enjoyment of the holiday for many students, who now face a long spell of unbroken school work and wintry weather until the next holiday, which comes at Easter. Good Friday this year falls on March 26th.

The annual meeting of the electors of the Town of Vulcan will be held in the Odd Fellows' hall on Friday, January 29th at eight o'clock. The Monday following the meeting is nomination day and in the election following, citizens of Vulcan will choose a mayor and four councillors. W. D. Allan and H. B. Ulrich are the only two members of the town whose term of office does not expire this year.

Prospect Slope Re-union Banquet And Dance At Reid Hill Well Attended

The Prospect Slope re-union banquet and dance, held in the Reid Hill community hall on Wednesday, December 30th, proved a source of much pleasure to a good crowd.

Among those present were many of the pioneers of the district, people who had been instrumental in the forming of the school district. A number of the pupils that attended the school when it was first opened in April of 1914 were also present. Some of them now have children of their own going to the school.

Toasts were proposed to the pupils by Mr. David McIntyre and responded to by Mr. Dallas Sperry; to the teachers by Mr. Frey Noyes and responded to by Miss A. Ward; to the trustees by Miss Mallinger and responded to by Mrs. T. N. Sperry. Letters were read which had been received from former teachers and pupils who were unable to attend.

A fine program was presented later, those taking part being: Master Richard Myers; recitation; Miss Eileen Fitzpatrick and Mr. Burnell Drummond, duet; readings by Miss Ruth Myers and Mr. Milton Lucas; solo, Mr. G. A. Sales; and a mandolin and accordion duet by Mr. and Mrs. J. Dahl.

U. F. A. AND POLITICS

One of the questions which will be uppermost at the U. F. A. annual convention is the continuance of the organization in the political field. There appears to be an increasing body of opinion opposed to political action, but whether they will carry the convention is by no means assured.

In recent weeks, the Western Farm Leader has been carrying arguments for and against, all of which show warring viewpoints.

One writer points out that the old U. F. A. government was false to the principles of the organization it was supposed to represent, eventually losing support of the organization for that reason. The principle that the U. F. A. organization be continuously in authority was repeatedlyouted by the government. The writer points to the Federal members as an example of worthy leadership supplied from the farmer class, yet in the legislative house, leadership was surrendered to a member of a professional group.

Another advocate of remaining in politics, sees choice to be between "moral suasion and political power," and concludes: "In the present state of public ethics I do not share the faith in moral force. Without a display of political power, appeals to justice and fair dealing are of little avail."

Those who oppose political action ask: "How important is it after all? Bankers are treated well by the federal government, yet there is no Bankers' party. Eastern industrialists get every consideration, yet there is no Industrialists' party. The Grain Trade and the C. P. R. have been well looked after, without any political organization, or without election of a government." It is suggested that instead, these favored groups hire a group of experts to go thoroughly into the question of business decline. Then by proper presentation of their case and judicious lobbying, they achieve the proper frame of mind amongst parliamentarians to get what they want. They would consider the organization of a political party a waste of time and effort.

The example is cited of Alberta farmers sending a number of able men to Ottawa for 14 years, and getting practically nothing. One of these ex-members has stated: "It is practically impossible for an opposition to force a bill through the Commons."

G. G. Coote is one of the first in his advocacy of an all-Canadian Agrarian movement. Such a body could hire its own economists and statisticians, to gather data on everything relative to the farm industry as a whole. Then the case for the farmer could be presented with authentic proof, and the organized strength of Canadian farmers, there would be no political axe to grind and no cold shouldering because they were of the political opposition.

"If the U. F. A." concludes one speaker, "had spent the time, effort and finances of the past 16 years in organizing a non-political Canadian farm movement, they would now have a body which would challenge the attention of any government or business group in Canada. We know that our cause is just and reasonable, and should get results by methods which have proved successful. The farmers of Canada must be organized as one huge industrial group." Speaking purely from the provincial standpoint, any aspect for regaining political power and prestige seems to lie in the far distant future. The supporters of the present government will not be content with passivity and inaction, but there is no indication that their next allegiance will be to old line parties, one of which the U. F. A. has become.

AS OTHERS SEE US

During the course of the last twelve months, Alberta has been a widely publicized province. Amongst commentators, who have come and observed for themselves is Mrs. Evelyn Tufts, political writer for the Halifax Herald. She offers an interesting point of view as she writes:

"Mr. Aberhart is really 'de Lawd' of the Green Pastures. Albertan people insist on this, in attitude if not in words. A good deal of their reason lies in the uneasiness of their conscience. Premier Aberhart has gone in for repudiation in a big way which would be an immoral course if taken by itself. But repudiation, carried out in the name of a religious movement, must be a different matter. And so, to adherents of the movement and to all those who have had their debts cancelled, Premier Aberhart is 'de Lawd'."

The Toronto Globe says: "For three years it has been British Columbia's policy to keep ordinary expenditure under revenue, and to improve financial position. It has made the federal treasury willing to co-operate in meeting unemployment, and has made investors increasingly willing to take money into that province to finance lumbering, mining and fishing operations. Alberta should take a leaf from British Columbia's book."

The Montreal Gazette: "Mr. Aberhart with a mistaken idea of benefitting the needy at the expense of the well-to-do, is really striking a blow at all forms of thrift, and in the long run will sacrifice the interests of those whom he professes to serve."

Brandon Sun: "Amongst the capitalists who have loaned money to aid in the development of Alberta are churches. The United Church of Canada has relied upon the honesty of Alberta to pay back loans and interest with which church revenues may aid in good work. The benevolent and pension funds of philanthropic bodies at the repudiation of commitments. Their benevolent and pension funds are heavily depleted. The Aberhart rough riders on debt made inroads of a far-reaching nature."

The Victoria Colonist: "Alberta conditions are deplorable due to Aberhart's policies and people who have not seen for themselves, should not be misled by certain enthusiastic students of a new type of hypnotism."

Vegreville Observer: "Guided by the prophecies of Daniel, the Book of Revelations, a touch of Ezekiel and Habakkuk, our good Premier is likely to propose almost anything. Social Credit dividends are still unrevealed, these not being properly covered by the major and minor prophets. 1937 will tell the tale whether Mr. Aberhart can deliver the goods so freely promised in 1935."

GOLD THAT TARNISHES NOT

Good tastes are wealth. One who likes poetry, music and the fine things in literature and art is rich. Nor need he like his ancestors, be deprived of following his tastes because of poverty. The world's richest art forms are to be had these days without money and without price.

Good habits are wealth. . . . Friends are wealth. One true friend in time of need is worth a score of paid retainers or a city full of calculating sycophants. Nor does it require especial genius to make friends, and therefore no especial genius to build this kind of wealth.

A good many people these past few years have scraped the bottom of material comforts and conveniences, only to discover that with good friends, and fine tastes they were rich beyond avarice. May that lesson stay learned as the tide of things returns.—Ulster County News (Kingston N.Y.)

Sibley Questions Argentine Meat Ban

"Harper Sibley," president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, declared he believed southern Argentine beef and mutton were free from the condition which caused a ban on importation of Argentine chilled meat to the United States.

President Roosevelt said, during his visit here for the opening of the Inter-American Peace Conference, that he would recommend approval by the United States Senate of a convention to replace the flat embargo with regulations to permit entry of meat from zones where conditions are normal.

"Mr. Sibley, who had returned from a three-day flying trip in Patagonia, southern Argentina, said it was purely a sheep country. Argentina contends chilled mutton from Patagonia should be admitted to the United States market even though the United States has continued on beef from northern Argentina.

"Mr. Sibley, who has been an unofficial observer at the peace conference, said he would leave for Brazil Sunday to examine cotton regions there. He is scheduled to make a report on his trip to the January meeting of the directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce."

Considerable interest will be felt in Canada in the forthcoming bill in the British parliament to increase the pay of members of parliament. It is not generally known that members of the British house are paid only $2000 a year and that fifty-five of them have no other income. On this meagre allowance they must maintain themselves in the city during the session, provide necessary election expenses and still keep their heads clear enough to legislate efficiently for the people of the kingdom and ensure sufficient government for a colonial empire of a few hundred million people. In contrast, the pay of Canadian provincial and federal politicians seems to err somewhat on the generous side.—Estevan Mercury.

Production Rises In Turner Valley

The strike at Sterling Pacific greatly extends the proven crude oil area of the Turner Valley field. Located a little more than a mile north of the Turner Valley Royalties well and about three miles north of the Foundation well, Sterling 3 extends the crude field of the north and west. It is located just west of the Royallite absorption plant the site being on the northwest corner of section 33, township 18, range 2. On the southwest corner of the same section, Royallite-Sterling Pacific 4 is drilling while Mercury No. 8, which has just been spudded, is just across the section line from Sterling Pacific 3.

542 Feet in Lime

Royallite-Sterling Pacific 3 was drilled to a depth of 6,780 feet of which 532 feet were in the limestone when drilling was halted. Foundation struck production at a total depth of 6,400 feet of which 382 feet were in the limestone. Turner Valley Royalties was completed at 6,900 feet of which 425 feet were in the limestone.

The Foundation well produced at the rate of 1,000 barrels a day recently then dropping back to about 600 barrels a day today, according to F. P. Byrne, president of Foundation Royalties, Limited.

The Arca well, on the Weiser place is past the 8500 foot mark and is logging true and progressing steadily. This is much the deepest well in the British Empire, and is regarded as one of the most important tests being made.

Foundation

Foundation well which is the most southerly producer, is still uncertain in performance. It has gone from 500 barrels to 1000 barrels and dropped back again. Tubing from the East will be installed after which production figures will be definitely available.

Richland 2, formerly Richfield Royalties, is being cleaned out for renewed work. It stands at 4060 feet and is half a mile from Turner Valley

Ancient Aborigine Bowed to Turkey

The turkey is the principal contribution of the New World to the domesticated birds kept by man, says the National Geographic Magazine. Captive turkeys were found among the Indians in abundance on the discovery of Mexico and were brought to Spain in 1519.

From there they spread rapidly through Europe. The Pueblo Indians kept turkeys in numbers long before the coming of the white man. Excavations at Pueblo Bonito, New Mexico, and at most of the other large pueblos of the Southwest, have revealed that there were rooms provided for the fowls.

These captive birds were kept not for use as food, but for their feathers, which were used in ceremonial offerings to Indian deities. To the Pueblo Indians the turkey was a sacred bird and was seldom eaten.

The ordinary domestic turkey of the farmyard still shows its Mexican ancestry in the white or buffy-white tips on tail and rump feathers. This is a characteristic of the Mexican bird, these markings being brown in the race native to the Eastern United States.

The father of Mussolini was a blacksmith. Hitler was once a street sweeper. Joseph Stalin, dictator of Russia, was born a peasant. Dollfuss, late premier of Austria, was a peasant. Thomas Hasaryk, President of Czechoslovakia, was a blacksmith. Ramsay MacDonald, who became prime minister of England, was the son of a laborer. Wilhelm Mikias, President of Austria, was a school teacher. Reza Khan, Shah of Persia, was a stable boy.

Royalties: Richland 3 is at 3200 feet, expecting to reach the lime at 5800 feet. The Richland Oil Co. was organized by Fay Becker the first to finance drilling by means of sale of royalties.

INTERESTING ITEMS

A total of 22,000 persons in Saskatchewan were placed on farms under the Federal bonus plan.

A correspondent asks, "Why are newspaper men called members of the 'Fourth Estate'?" Where did this term originate? And if this profession is the "fourth," what are the first three? Carlyle, in his "Heroes and Hero Worship," said: "Burke said there were Three Estates in Parliament; but, in the Reporter's Gallery yonder there sat a fourth estate more important far than they all: The Three Estates of the Realm are Lords Spiritual, Lords Temporal and the Commons."—Milverton Sun.

HAGGIS WELL DESCRIBED—L. W. Brockington, K.C., seemingly wants to bring on a war between the Welsh and the Scotch, remarks the Lethbridge Herald.

He, a native Welshman, in proposing a toast at St. Andrew's dinner in Winnipeg, described haggis as a "small sculptured image of the Loch Ness monster" and the best example of "gastronomical proportional representation I know." If he were cast on a desert island with a haggis and were faced with either starvation or haggis, haggis would be his second choice. He said all of this without a blade being flushed at his body or a drop of blood—or Scotch—being spilled.

Edward of Windsor

(From Lethbridge Herald)

There is a story that is told by Vernon MacKenzie, Canadian-born dean of the University of Washington school of journalism and a former Lethbridge newspaperman, that sheds an interesting sidelight on the late King Edward, now the Duke of Windsor. MacKenzie heard the story frequently during his recent trip to the Old Country and the Continent and he is inclined to credit it.

When the Germans re-occupied the demilitarized Rhine zone last March, British newspapers and British politicians got very excited; almost as wrought up as the French, says the Canadian journalist. After a few days of this King Edward is said to have called to Buckingham Palace several of his leading ministers, and addressed them somewhat in this fashion:

"Gentlemen: I have been through one war. It looks as if some of you were willing to let the days of 1914-1918 be repeated. I have summoned you for just one purpose today. I have this to say: If you gentlemen get this country into another bloody war over this Rhineland affair, I shall abdicate! And then I shall go on the wireless and tell my people exactly why I have abdicated!"

It is a matter of record that within the next twenty-four hours bellicose speeches ceased, and the British newspapers took a definitely conciliatory tone, says MacKenzie.

that he was not in England last month had he been home he would have got in wrong as Churchill did and for the same reason—dislike of Baldwin. Churchill has attempted no comeback except to say that his connection with Baldwin has been a series of ups and downs, the downs preponderating. Clever politicians will never learn to beware of the man who has the reputation of being dull and is in fact as stupid as a fox.

The Prime Minister has been commended not only for his silence while the constitutional crisis was being settled but also for assenting to the procedure of Hon. Stanley Baldwin. He pursued the proper course all right, but Mr. Woodsworth is likely to point out that the government in not consulting parliament acted in contravention of the Statute of Westminster, as indeed it did. It would, however, have put the members to unnecessary trouble and the country to unnecessary expense had he called parliament together to give formal consent. If Mr. Woodsworth, or any one else, protests against the government floating or usurping the functions of parliament, he will only be doing what Mr. King himself would do were Mr. Meighen or Mr. Bennett, Prime Minister. When Mr. King was leader of the Opposition he was always a vigilant watchdog of the privileges of parliament.

The King of Italy is reported ill. There! What did we tell you? We told you more than once that Italy had a King.

That German war vessel that stopped and questioned a British ship as to its cargo and destination had its nerve, but then we have seen spaniels that were almost impudent with bull-dogs. It never amounted to anything except to amuse the bulldog.

Horace Greeley once said that the way to resume specie payment is to resume specie payment. Similarly it may be said that the way to pay Social Credit dividends is to pay Social Credit dividends.

There is no more tolerant people than the English, yet anti-Jewish riots have taken place there recently and English newspapers are discussing why there should be anti-Semitic prejudices in so many countries. Jews themselves should try to work out the answer. They have their own prejudices, so it will not do to allege that the fault is all owing to the prejudices of others. A Jew became leader of the Conservative party in Great Britain and was Prime Minister. Another became leader of the Liberal party. Other Jews like Lord Reading were advanced to high positions of state. When anti-Jewish demonstrations take place in such a country as that, it does not suffice to say that the English are intolerant.

From one learn all, or at least some of the reasons why Jews are mistrusted. A Jewish lawyer, and M.P.P. in an eastern city, complained bitterly of the persecution to which his race was subjected by fire insurance companies. He brought it before the Legislature in a Bill to make such discrimination illegal. Now, insurance companies spend a lot of money to get business, and are not likely to turn down any reasonable risk because of the applicant's race or creed. If there was such discrimination and there was and is, he could have solved the problem by organizing an exclusively Jewish fire insurance company, but he did not do that. Nor did anyone else. He preferred to make himself the champion of a persecuted people.

If they would take counsel together, assuming at the outset that the fault must lie in themselves that they are unpopular in so many countries, they might make a searching examination that would be useful in preventing proscriptions. Why are we so mistrusted? Is there anything wrong with our business ethics? Do we quarrel among ourselves but unite against the Gentiles? Do some of us in business put up a Gentile front when a Jewish front is not a front populaire? Do we form a political bloc? Do we ever establish a boycott? Do many of our race go in for racketeering? Was there any justification for the Deir-born Independent's story of the intrigues and machinations of the International Jew? These and other questions they might ask in the search for reasons why anti-Jewish outbreaks occur in so many countries.

If the food shortage in Germany is as bad as it is reported to be, it may bring along peace for economic reasons or war for political reasons. A food shortage is not a very promising beginning but dictators have often gone to war when their country was distracted, their hope being that their people would unite against the common enemy and forget their internal troubles.

Christmas and Farm
The Farm and Food

Christmas 1936 should see a revival of this ancient Christmas toast. Those were the days when the value of the farm was universally recognized, but in the whirl of modern life the farm, as the sure foundation of material civilization, is apt to be forgotten. The word farm means food and was so called because in older times the tenant was required to provide the landlord with food by way of rent. Today this definition has been considerably extended in that the farm supplies the nation with food, and without food, without the feeding of the multitude, it is not given to human beings to be able openly to express that spirit of universal kindness and peace and good will, evoked by the teachings of the Master in the celebration of the festival of Christmas.

The connection between agriculture and Christmas has been intimate from the beginning. It was to shepherds watching their flocks by night that the words "Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy" were addressed. It was in a lowly stable attached to a farm-khan that the Saviour of the World was born, and a few days later it was on the back of the most humble farm animal, the ass, that He was borne to Egypt in safety.

It was from the agricultural population mainly that the early Christians drew their adherents, and many years later it was over the farms and orchards in the vicinity of Rome that the early Christians scoured the country in search of holly branches to decorate their churches and dwellings at Christmastide.

Meanwhile, the farm, as ever, continued to furnish the wherewithal for the feast, and at the same time, as centuries rolled by and towns became the farm that kept alive the kindly, ancient rites of the feast. Many centuries later, Charles Dickens restored to the townfolk of England something of the joy and beauty of the spirit of Christmas which still flourished among agricultural communities. Even today many of the ancient agricultural Christmas celebrations, as distinct from the towns, survive, some of them under limited conditions. There is Plough Monday, for example, which is still observed in several countries, including the British Isles. In olden times in Europe, Plough Monday marked the end of the Christmas holidays. It was held on the first Monday in January after the twelfth day. It was customary on Plough Monday, before the ploughman returned to work on the following day, to draw a plough from door to door of the parish to solicit "plough money" to spend in a frolic. The queen of the banquet was called Bessy.

Then there was the ancient feast of the boar's head which still exists in at least three distinct communities in England—at Queen's College, Oxford, on Christmas Day, and at the annual Christmas banquets of the City of London at the Guildhall and of the Worshipful Company of Cutlers in London. The proceedings are much the same. Trumpets sound and the boar's head is carried in procession, escorted by choristers singing the old carol "The boar's head in hand bring I." At the City of London feast, the master takes the lemon from the boar's jaws and at Oxford the Provost takes the orange and presents it to the principal singer. At the Cutlers' Hall, the president of the feast accepts the present of a pot of mustard, and extols the circumstances of the feast. This reference to mustard must be very old, because in a carol that had been in vogue for centuries before, Wynkyn de Worde printed the words in 1521 A.D., the last line of which runs "the bore's heed with mustarde."

The phrase "Christmas Box" originated in the early Christian times. It was really then a box which was placed in the church for promiscuous charities and was opened on Christmas Day. The contents were distributed the next day (Boxing Day) by the priest, and where the contributions consisted of cash were known as box money. However, farmers were accustomed to leave their contributions in kind, eggs, butter, flour, meat, and other agricultural products much the same as the farmers of Quebec today place fruits at the church entrance on Thanksgiving Day, the results of the sales of which go towards masses for the souls of relatives. In many churches in Canada, the accumulation of Christmas gifts is distributed in much the same manner as in the earliest

King George Gives
New Year Message

King George VI. issued a New Year's greeting to the empire, reading:

"In this first New Year's day of my reign I send all the peoples of the empire my warmest wishes for their welfare and happiness.

"In succeeding to the throne I follow a father who had won for himself an abiding place in the hearts of his peoples and a brother whose brilliant qualities gave promise of another historic reign. His reign was cut short in circumstances upon which, from their very sadness, none of us would wish to dwell.

"I realize the full responsibilities of my noble heritage. I shoulder them with all the more confidence in the knowledge that the Queen and my mother, Queen Mary, are at my side.

"Throughout my life it will be my constant endeavor to strengthen the foundations of mutual trust and affection on which relations between the sovereign and people of the British Empire so happily rest. I ask your help toward fulfilment of this purpose, and I know that I do not ask in vain.

"To repeat the words used by my dear father at the time of his silver jubilee, my wife and I dedicate ourselves for all time to your service and we pray God may give us guidance and strength to follow the path that lies before us."

The Advocate will be pleased to receive items for the local columns regarding visitors, entertainments, parties leaving for holidays or short trips, bridge parties, teas, etc.

Christian days.

And at this Christmastide, as in the days gone by, the farm has furnished the chief necessities for the Christmas feast, such as the meats, the turkeys, the geese, the ducks and chickens, the cereal foods, the vegetables, the cream milk, eggs, and cheese, not forgetting that many of the other essentials the candies and confectionery, the pickles, cigars and cigarettes, are all of agricultural origin.

So once more, the ancient toast: "Christmas and the Farm: the Farm and Food."

WAKE UP YOUR
Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Millions of
"Little Savings"
Make Up
Life Insurance

LIFE INSURANCE ASSETS—large in the aggregate—actually consist of the "little savings" of more than 3,500,000 Canadian policyholders. The great majority of these policyholders are men and women of moderate means, whose thrift often involves personal sacrifice.

Sharing in the protection and financial security of Life Insurance, are people from every walk in life—including thousands upon thousands of wage earners whose individual savings are necessarily small. That is why Life Insurance is rightly regarded as Canada's greatest co-operative enterprise.

Consider what your savings in Life Insurance mean to you and your dependants, in protection and peace-of-mind. Then you can realize what millions of similar savings mean to the people of Canada.

These combined savings in Life Insurance, which total more than Two Billion Dollars, are invested so that every obligation to policyholders and beneficiaries may be promptly and fully met.

Day after day, year after year, "little savings" in Life Insurance accomplish great things in aiding the widows and fatherless—in educating children—in making older men and women financially independent.

Grain Inquiry And Wheat Figures

Commission at Winnipeg Under Justice Turgeon Presents Evidence

The grain inquiry at Winnipeg, conducted by Mr. Justice Turgeon, showed the loss of markets to the Canadian wheat industry giving reasons therefor.

L. W. Brockington, counsel for the North West Grain Dealers' Association, pointed out that the farmer's double handicap is buying goods at costs enhanced by a closed market, and selling his product on a market made more difficult by tariffs and embargoes.

James McAush, statistician of the Wheat Board, said that Canada had not only failed to win a part of the world market, available through U.S. disappearance as wheat exporter, but had also failed to hold her own share of foreign trade from 1930 to 1935.

C. B. Davidson, Wheat Board Secretary, said tariffs and imposition of dumping duties by Canada in 1930, curtailed imports from European markets, bringing fewer foreign purchases of Canadian wheat import restrictions on textiles, struck at the heart of trade with continental Europe. When secondary industries were protected to a point where fair competition was eliminated, this disrupted the export market for primary industries.

Dr. McGibbon, of the Board of Grain Commissioners, spoke of governmental aid to United States, Argentine and Australia.

Prof. Alley of University of Manitoba said steps toward international currency stabilization had cleared the way for setting up a system by which currencies would not again get out of alignment.

WHY? OH, WHY?

Why talk of debt, doubt, disease, drugs, disaster, discouragement, depression, decay, disorder, despair, defeat, difficulty, discord, danger, destruction, discomfort, deception, disappointment, distrust, dread, dejection, destitution, desolation, when you can just as well think and talk of peace, plenty, power, pluck, persistence, purpose, possession, pleasure, promotion, patriotism, proficiency, progress, prosperity, perseverance, purity, philanthropy, prayer and paradise?

1936 Production

Actual sales of naphtha and crude oil by Turner Valley companies to the Imperial, Bell and British American refineries in Calgary, will considerably exceed 1,000,000 barrels for the current year.

Taking a conservative estimate of 110,000 barrels sold in December, including some production from the Foundation and Royalite-Sterling Pacific wells, the total sales for 1936 will be 1,054,344 barrels compared with the total of 966,528 barrels in 1935.

Turner Valley Royalties, big crude oil producer, greatly boosted 1936 production, when it came in as an 800-barrel-a-day producer last June. Naphtha production gradually declined throughout the year but this was more than offset by crude oil production.

Sales to the British American Oil Company Limited from Turner Valley Royalties and other producers are being carried through the Imperial pipeline now and, accordingly, the Bell refinery is not reporting deliveries.

Deliveries to the Imperial refinery in November, reported, comprised 5,163 barrels of crude naphtha, 55,497 barrels of discolored crude naphtha, and 1,992 barrels of crude oil, making a total of 62,652 barrels. Deliveries to the British American Company in Calgary were 26,327 barrels of crude oil and 4,229 barrels of discolored crude naphtha.

In October the Imperial refinery received 4,114 barrels of crude naphtha, 58,312 barrels of discolored crude naphtha and 1,804 barrels of crude oil. The British American Company, in that month, received 27,585 barrels of crude oil and 3,941 barrels of naphtha.

The following table shows the deliveries to the larger Calgary refineries, month by month, from Turner Valley for the years 1935 and 1936. The figures refer to barrels of 35 gallons.

Month	1935	1936
January	80,735	79,127
February	77,492	74,146
March	80,957	76,687
April	73,013	76,615
May	79,481	75,410
June	86,642	79,489
July	83,480	101,322
August	83,930	98,449
September	76,953	94,134
October	75,185	95,756
November	81,305	93,208
December	87,355	110,000
Totals	966,528	1,054,344

Wheat History

(By H. G. Strange)

A Scotchman made perhaps the greatest gift ever sent to Western Canada and received nothing in return!

This refers to the introduction into Canada and the West of the famous Red Fife wheat, which was not only of superlative quality itself, but also is one of the parents of Marquis, Reward, Garnet, Thatcher and other good varieties.

It appears that in 1842 David Fife of the township of Otonabee, Canada West, (now Ontario) asked a friend in Glasgow, Scotland, to send him a little wheat. This Scottish friend took a small quantity from a cargo ship which had just arrived from Danzig. David Fife received this and seeded it, but only three ears ripened. These were carefully preserved and seeded again and proved to be a wonderful wheat, which was soon given the name of Red Fife.

Red Fife was imported into Manitoba about 1870, and the first shipment of wheat from Western Canada, made in 1876, consisted entirely of Red Fife. This established the high reputation of Canadian wheat on the world's markets.

David Fife made little or nothing out of his selection, and the name of his Scottish friend who made the valuable gift to us is not even known.

Following factors have tended to raise price: Persistent wet weather in the southern hemisphere lowers the quality and quantity and delays the movement of new wheat.

Italian wheat production for 1936 reported as 227 million bushels compared with 284 million in 1935.

Following factors have tended to lower price: Large U.S. winter wheat acreage indicated, with production slightly over 600 million. Italian corn rice and potato crops larger in 1936 than in 1935. U. S. Department of Agriculture reports ample world wheat supplies during present crop year. Reports of considerable surplus of Turkish wheat, barley and corn for export this season.

FROM OTHER PAPERS

I hope all this European mess will result in Britain coming to a firm decision to pull out. God knows the empire is big enough and grand enough to keep any race busy. If I might be allowed, I would suggest Britain leave Europe to its 'merry little hatreds, boundary disputes and jealousies, and remember all the time that we are as a race at least 250 to 300 years ahead of any other. I mean by that we killed a king umpteen years ago and had our dictator—Cromwell—and got over that sort of thing, more or less settling down then in a commonsense sort of way. Now it is time to take stock of what we have—and to hold—and to develop this amazing empire of ours. With such opportunity (and so much money lost in foreign investments by London) surely we have a few imperial statesmen somewhere capable of filling the empty spaces.—Kamloops Sentinel.
